“THE DRINK OF THE GODS”

RICE

High quality and carefully farmed rice is expensive, but worth it.

Premium sake is made from rice specifically bred for sake. It isn't made from table rice. Great sake uses high quality rice grown in high quality fields. A great sake brewery will keep a close relationship with their local farmers to find the best rice grown in the region.

POLISHING

The best sake is made only from the heart of the rice grain.

The outer layer of sake rice contains protein and fatty acids that produce harsh flavor.

To make great sake the brewer must polish away the outer layers.

The state of the art machine needed to polish rice to ultra premium levels without breaking the grains costs over one million dollars.

ATTENTION

Hand crafted, labor intensive techniques lead to better sake.

Many steps of modern mass-produced sake are done by machines following a procedure. This hands-off approach loses the careful oversight of a great Toji (Master Brewer). Only a diligent and talented Toji is able to make the small adjustments needed at every step to produce the best sake every time.

HONJOZO

Rice polished to at least 70%. A small amount of distilled alcohol is added to the rice mash. This is added to extract aromas and flavor compounds that do not dissolve in water. These compounds would otherwise be removed during the filtering process. Honjozo's are light and easy to drink.

JUNMAI

Rice polished to at least 70%. Made with only rice, water, yeast and koji. Junmai typically are fuller bodied and richer than other types often with good acidity. Junmai paired with a higher grade means that the rice is polished to that level AND was made with only rice, water, yeast and koji.

GINJO

Rice polished to at least 60%. Brewed with labor intensive steps. Fermented at colder temperatures for longer periods. Ginjos are quite fragrant, with rich fruit flavors.

DAIGINJO

Rice polished to at least 50%. The pinnacle of the sake brewer's art. Brewed with painstaking precision. Daiginjos are generally delicate with complex flavors and aromas. They are the smoothest of all sake.

NIGORI

Cloudy. Coarsely filtered to allow rice particles to remain in sake to increase texture and flavor.

NAMA

Unpasteurized. fresh, fuller flavored, lively

GENSHU

Undiluted, cask strength. Higher alcohol content

TOKUBETSU

Special. A Sake that the brew master has designated as special. Made with extra attention.

SAKE NIGORI

Cloudy Sake. Coarsely filtered to allow the unfermented rice particles to remain in the sake to increase feeling and flavor.

		BOTTLE
DREAMY CLOUDS	TOKUBETSU JUNMAI NIGORI	112
Rihaku Brewery, Shimane Prefecture

This Nigori is special because its milling rate of 41% technically qualifies it as Junmai Ginjo grade sake, a rare quality level for a nigori sake. The nose is led by steamed rice, fresh red plums, and suggestions of roasted peanuts. Unlike many Nigori, it is lean and very dry in the mouth, and the impact is chewy with rice flavors intermingling with the nutty and slightly fruity characteristics.

TAMANO HIKARI	SPRKLING NIGORI	84
Tamano Hikari Brewery, Kyoto Prefecture

A modern twist from a storied old brewery. Bringing the magic of sparkling to the sake world. The bubbles come from in-bottle secondary fermentation. The lightly cloudy sake boasts natural bubbles, complimented by the subtle sweetness of nigori sake. It stimulates the palate and is ideal both for celebrating with a toast and pairing throughout a meal.

FRUIT INFUSED SAKE

These Sakes have been infused with fresh Japanese fruit. Bursting with flavor, these Sakes delightfully showcase the tropical fruits they are infused with.

		BOTTLE
YUZU BAY - 500ml	YUZU INFUSED SAKE	80
Funasaka Brewery, Gifu Prefecture

Yuzu is a Japanese citrus fruit. The infusion gives this sake a rich sweetness balanced by the crisp acidity of yuzu. It is made from spring water from the beautiful mountains of Hida. The fruit used in this sake is grown in Kaminoho Village, renowned for high quality yuzu.

Kuheiji Kuno is the talented owner and master brewer of Kuheiji Brewery. As a young man, he fell in love with Burgundy's wines and followed his passion to France, where he moved to study and learn how wine is made. Through this, a unique bridge between the two was forged. Now as Toji of his brewery, he uses his knowledge of Burgundy to create new innovations in his sake. Kurodashi is one of the first sake brands to be terroir-specific. 'Tako' means 'high value rice paddies' and refers to the specific incredibly fertile field this sake is made from, similarly to having a specific Premier Cru site in Burgundy. This Sake has a unique collection of flavors: peach, lemon, cucumber and great minerality. The complexity of this sake will make it an excellent choice for any lover of great white wine.
